Competition Format and Rules

Formato e regras da competição / Format et règles de la compétition

Olympic competition format

The two synchronised swimming events that will be contested at the Rio 2016 Olympic Games are duets and teams.

The event for teams is a final-only competition and is held over two sessions – the technical routine and the free routine. The sum of the score from the two sessions determines the final result.

There are two phases in the duets competition – the preliminary (free routine preliminary and technical routine) and the final (free routine final). The sum of the free routine preliminary points and the technical routine points determines the result of the preliminary phase.

The highest 12 ranked duets at the end of the preliminary phase advance to the final. If, after applying International Swimming Federation (FINA) tiebreak rules, there is an unbreakable tie for 12th place, all tied duets will advance to the final.

The single session in the final is the free routine final. The result of the final is the sum of the free routine final points and the technical routine points from the preliminary phase.

The number of competitors is as follows:

- Eight teams of nine competitors (72 competitors).
- Sixteen additional duets of two competitors (32 competitors).
- Total of 104 competitors.

An NOC may enter the duets competition only (maximum of one pair) or it may enter the duets and the teams competitions (maximum of one team, i.e. nine competitors) with two of the team members also swimming in the duets.

Differences between the FINA World Championships and the Olympic Games

There is no solo or free combination event in the Olympic programme. In addition, at the FINA World Championships, in all events the medals are awarded for both the technical and the free routine.

Changes since the London 2012 Olympic Games

In the preliminary phase of the duets competition at the Rio 2016 Olympic Games the routines will be swum in reverse order from previous Games. The first session will be the free routine preliminary, followed by the technical routine session.

The time limit for the duets (for free routines) has been reduced by 30 seconds and it should now be performed in just three minutes.

There have also been changes to the method of judging for the Rio 2016 Games. At London 2012 each routine for both events had two panels of seven judges, but in Rio each routine will have three panels of five judges.

Sport rules and procedures

Rules for Olympic competition:

Both duets and teams events consist of two types of routines (technical routine and free routine) with three panels of judges. The details of scoring are as follows:

General:

- Judges will award scores (0 to 10, with 0.1 increments).
- For every set of scores awarded by a panel of judges the highest and lowest scores are discarded before calculations are made.

- The sum of the remaining judges' scores is used to determine the points from that panel.
- The points for a routine can be determined by adding the points for each panel multiplied by a weighting factor, minus any penalties.
- The total points for a phase are the sum of the technical routine and the free routine points (in the duets final phase the technical routine points from the preliminary phase are used).

Technical Routine:

- The three panels of judges (and weighting factor) are execution (30%), impression (30%) and required elements (40%).
- Each judge on the first two panels will award one score. Judges on the third panel will award separate scores for each of the five required elements, which must be performed in the specified order.
- Each required element will have a specified Degree of Difficulty (DD). The score for each element will be the average of the counted judges' scores multiplied by the DD.

Free Routine:

- The three panels of judges (and weighting factor) are execution (30%), artistic impression (40%) and difficulty (30%).
- Each judge on the three panels will award one score.

Tiebreak rules and procedures:

In general, for both events, tied ranks are not broken. If ties occur within the top three final ranks, multiple medals are awarded.

However, if two or more duets are tied for the 12th qualifying place at the end of the preliminary phase, the ties will be broken as follows:

- The higher free routine score of the preliminary phase.
- If they remain tied, by the execution score of the free routine.
- If they remain tied, by the score of the technical routine.
- If they remain tied, by the elements score of the technical routine.
- In the case of an unbreakable tie, all tied duets will qualify to the free routine final.

Penalties/disqualification rules:

There are several competition rules that, if broken, can result in penalty deductions when determining the score for the routine (e.g. time limit, using the bottom of the pool, incorrect technical required elements, etc.). Penalties are assessed by a referee.

There are also certain FINA rules relating to synchronised swimming that, if broken, can result in a duet or team being disqualified from the competition. Such rules are additional disqualification criteria over and above any International Olympic Committee sanctioned disqualification criteria.

Protests/appeals:

Protests are possible and shall be resolved under FINA rules. Protests must be submitted to the referee in writing by the team leader, together with a deposit of CHF 100, within 30 minutes of the conclusion of the event concerned. All protests shall be considered by the referee. The Commission shall consider appeals against decisions by the referee and give recommendations to the Jury of Appeal, whose decision shall be final.
